Please help us serve your financial needs and allow us to bill accurately by bringing your current insurance card and photo ID with you to every visit. Upon each visit please inform us if you change insurance coverage, marital status, or have a change in address or telephone.

Prior to your appointment be sure to check your eligibility as well as your benefits in the event you have a "supplemental" coverage for routine vision services. Visit our website to learn more about insurance at www.specialtyeyecarecentre.com/seattle/insurance.htm. If an insurance card is not available at the time of your first appointment, it will be necessary to collect payment for services performed that day. If you have a family member or friend who will participate in your medical care, we recommend they accompany you to your visit.

We encourage you to visit our website at www.specialtyeyecarecentre.com to learn more about the eye and the diseases and disorders that can affect your vision. In addition to our patient education library you will find information about our doctors, testimonials from patients and directions to both our Bellevue and Seattle locations.

While there are times you may need to cancel or change your appointment, please be courteous to all patients by contacting our office within 24 hours of your appointment. This will enable us to offer your appointment slot to someone else on our wait list. Please understand there will be a charge of $75.00 for appointments cancelled without 24 hours notice.

Your world class team at Specialty EyeCarè Centre looks forward to meeting you. If you have any questions please call our office at 425-454-3937 or email us through the contact page on our website.

Generic Medications

Most of us are familiar with generic medications, but are unsure if it is appropriate to switch from our branded medications to the generic substitution. Generic medications can certainly provide a cost savings, so why would the physician recommend continuing with a branded drug? Are there differences of which I should be aware? Are there differences between topical medications such as eye drops and medications you take by mouth?

The answer is yes. To answer these questions, let's start with the definition of a generic medication. Simply stated, generics are considered to be identical in dose, strength, route of administration, safety, efficacy, and intended use of the branded version. The major difference between the generics and the branded drugs deals with a medical term called bioequivalence, or in the case of eye drops, how well the drugs will get into the eye and work.

So why would the doctor prescribe a brand name drug for me instead of the generic? Not every brand-name drug has a generic drug. If in fact there is a generic drug as an option, there can be a challenge regarding how well the drug works when applied topically as the eye drop formulations are not typically tested for generic eye drops. And on rare occasion, there can be adverse side effects.

For the majority of patients, generic drugs will work very well, however, it is possible for a generic medication to work or feel differently. If your glaucoma is stable and you are using one medication, then switching to a generic could be reasonable. However, if your glaucoma is more advanced requiring multiple medications, it may not be a good choice to switch. We support any patient request to change to a generic medication unless we know that the generic does not work as well or creates a side effect.

When a patient wishes to change from a branded medication to a generic, we recommend a follow up visit with the doctor to determine if the new generic drug is working as well as expected. Be aware there may not be a direct generic substitution for the medication that you are taking, but there may be one close within the same class of medications.

We are here for you. Do not hesitate to ask us any questions regarding your current medications.

Health Insurance for Medical Coverage

While Specialty Eyecarè Centre is available to answer questions you may have concerning insurance coverage, it is important to understand that your medical coverage is between you and your health insurance company. You are responsible to be aware of the details of your plan. Having the specific information required for your insurance plan will facilitate your appointment and allow for a stress free visit upon arrival in our office. When a referral from your primary care physician is needed, contact your plan and have the following information before your appointment:

*Please provide us the number of visits or time frame we are allowed to see you

*Please provide us the billing referral number from your insurance company for our paperwork to file your claim

Pre Authorization for Medical Coverage
Some insurance programs require a pre-authorization before ophthalmology services and procedures. Check your benefits book or website to find out what is needed for your appointment. This is very important because if your visit is not authorized, you will need to pay for all the services you receive from us.

The Co-Pay, Deductible and Co-Insurance
The co-pay applies to the co-insurance amount and is due at time of service. We apply it against any co-insurance you may owe. The co-insurance is the percent you are asked to pay for your medical care. It is often 20%. The deductible is the amount you are required to pay for your medical coverage before your insurance pays their portion.

The Responsible Party
If you are the patient but someone else is responsible for the payment of your bill through their insurance policy, this person must accompany you and bring their insurance card, provide their address, and telephone number. If they do not, we will be required to ask you for payment at the time you arrive.

The Difference between Medical Eye Care and Vision Care
Your appointment is considered a Medical Eye Care appointment when you have a specific complaint about your vision and when we are managing your vision associated with a specific eye-related disease, for pre-surgery, surgery and post-operative care.

Your appointment is considered vision care when it is to adjust the prescription of your glasses or contact lenses and for your annual vision eye exam. Vision Care is not covered by most insurance companies, and you will be responsible for all charges at the time you are seen. We do not currently accept any Vision Care Plans.

Forms of Payment
We accept cash, check, money-order and Visa, MasterCard, American Express

Thank you for loyalty and continued support,
